Our Recent History in the Context of This New Opportunity

Since 2013, we have entered an age of large scale public debates on the best ways for businesses to address the impacts of climate change and energy transformation while finding new value and competitive advantage in an age of carbon and capital constraints.

To date, we have organized 13 workshops in this area. Our discussions are confidential and facilitated under Chatham House Rules.

With the generous support of key sponsors including Ingersoll Rand, Lockheed, BP, DTE, Caterpillar, Enbridge, American Electric Power, Calvert Research & Management, and others, we have grown this working group. It has matured, and is stable in value and reach. Our working group is dedicated to identifying a set of solutions.

Our shared ambitions are:

- Useful focused facilitated dialogue among leaders
- Discernment of best options that are doable/reliable
- Frontier thinking—illuminating innovation
- Early formation of B to B innovation paths between members
- Arranging one-on-one dual company on-site meetings along the purpose of this workshop
- Fostering the prospect of unique alliances
- Helping rehearse the solutions internally and before senior leadership
- Benchmarking the best programs moving forward into the public
- Expanding the ongoing membership

If you have questions on content or suggestions on speakers to invite please contact Ken Strassner, Ken@ahcgroup.com and Bruce Piasecki, Bruce@ahcgroup.com.

These events are free to workshop sponsors, speakers, and panelists, and $2,695 for invited new companies.
